THE BEACON

Volume 67, Issue 12

December 2025

It's beginning to look a lot like...crazy! If you are like me, everything speeds up this time of year. We have gifts to buy, parties to attend, and events on every weekend. It is hard sometimes to remember that we celebrate a quiet night in Bethlehem, when all we do is make a lot of noise around the holidays.

In my years as a pastor, I was shocked by how busy the Christmas season was for my household. Yes, we had the church's Christmas calendar to attend to, as well as family obligations, the normal church rhythm, and ministering to those who were struggling through what is supposed to be the most joyous time of the year, but there was also the unavoidable and unforeseen events that would often take our time. I would find myself exhausted before we ever reached December 25th.

The truth is, I know your pastor feels this too. So, this month I want to offer you 7 gifts you can give your pastor (in no particular order) that will make this holiday season one that he can truly enjoy and find rest in:

1. Encourage your pastor and staff. It sounds simple but letting your pastor and staff know how much they mean to you in a simple note or a kind word means a lot in this busy time of holiday fatigue.
2. Appreciate your pastor and staff by encouraging them to take their spouse to the Pastor's appreciation dinner with the GCCBA. (I know this a shameless plug, but I mean it). This year we will celebrate our pastors on December 1st at 6:30 PM. Fallston Baptist Church is graciously serving us by hosting this year and we want to encourage your pastor and your staff at this event.
3. Lend them a helping hand. Many of our pastors and staff will host events in their homes or at the church where, although its not "in the job description," they will put a lot of effort into serving the church body through a meal or a reception. Take the time to bring food or volunteer to help serve so that the pastor can worry less about logistics and more about loving your people.

Thoughts from Staff

4. Show up! With all the events and activities planned in our churches, the pastor and staff know that they are expected to be there, so make sure you show up as well. There is nothing more demoralizing than planning a meaningful holiday service and half the church decides that it's just not that important.
5. Take it off the plate. With all the previous plans and expectations mentioned, keep in mind that not everything is necessary. You have to give the pastor and staff the freedom to not do things that the church may no longer feel are necessary. If no one attends the candlelight service (including you) then it may be time to stop having it. If the group that goes to the Samaritan's Purse processing center is dwindling, then take who signs up and give the pastor and staff the night off. Often, they need our permission to rest.
6. Give them a gift. I know, everyone is giving gifts at this time and what do you give a pastor anyway? (Just so you know, I own over 50 bibles. We love them, but if your pastor doesn't have one, we may need to have a different conversation.) Your gift doesn't need to be extravagant, just meaningful in letting them know you care. The youth pastor may love a gift card to take his wife out to eat with an offer to babysit. The pastor or any member of the staff may love to join the GCCBA's Minister and Spouse retreat on March 6 through 8 (I know, that's two shameless plugs, but 10 out of 10 pastors agree, a free retreat is always a welcome gift). This year we will be in Ridgecrest with Dr. Tate and Wendy Cockrell for a look at the challenge of marriage and ministry. We have a few spaces left and we would love to have your pastor and staff join us. Call the office for more info – 704-482-3472.
7. Pray for them. Now, don't pick this one because it's cheap, because if you do it right, it may be the most expensive. First of all, let your pastor and staff know you are praying for them. Tell them personally, don't just mention it as you walk out the door this Sunday—write it in a note, call them, or best of all, make an appointment and drop by their office. Ask them for how you can pray and then before you hang up or get up to leave – pray. As a pastor I would pray a lot, but I rarely heard others pray, and even more rarely did I hear them pray for me. If you want to give them a true gift, pray over them so they hear it. Then, pray over them when they can't – as in, every day as you spend time with God, keep them before him always.

Jason Ballard

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

*"I give thanks to my God for every remembrance of you, always praying with joy for all of you in my every prayer,
because of your partnership in the gospel
from the first day until now."
Philippians 1:3-5*

Partners are important. No, they're essential! We're thankful for your partnership in many different ways. Your prayers and financial contributions are important!

Thank you for your 2025 contributions

Pray for churches who are seeking a pastor.

Bethany ~ Christian Freedom ~ Crestview ~ Dover
~ Fallston ~ Norman's Grove ~ Pleasant Hill ~
Trinity ~ Union ~ Waco

Bethany:

Bethany Baptist Church, located in the peaceful community of Grover, North Carolina, is prayerfully seeking the pastor that God has chosen to lead and serve our congregation. We are a small but faithful and loving church family, with an average attendance of 30–45 members. We have the best praise team a church could ask for with live music and instruments that is an amazing experience to praise with. We desire a pastor that is not only committed to preaching the Word of God but also walking alongside us in worship, fellowship, and life. We believe that being a pastor is more than delivering a sermon on Sunday — it's about being part of a family. At Bethany Baptist, we strive to love one another, serve our community, and grow in Christ together. We gather each Wednesday for a time of fellowship, a short message, and a shared hot meal — a cherished tradition that brings us closer together. We are open to both full-time and bivocational candidates, depending on the best fit for our church and the calling God has placed on the pastor's life. Our desire is for someone who feels led to shepherd, encourage, and grow with us — someone who values the church, and the youth, as well as the community as much as the pulpit. If you feel called to a close-knit church that is hungry for God's Word, rooted in love, and ready to support a pastor who will lead with humility and heart, we would love to hear from you.
